DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Claims 27-28 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected species, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on 6/14/05.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 24-25, 29, and 31-32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Persson et al.

Persson et al. disclose the claimed invention including a painted outer layer 1, plastic foam layer 3, reinforcing plate 4, and sound absorbing layer 5. The inner surface of the sound absorbing material is covered by a sheet of material 6. Note that the roof member of Persson et al. is for a automobile which inherently includes a “cab” as broadly as recited which can be used for work (work machine).

Persson et al. do not disclose the foamed layer being foamed polyurethane resin nor the reinforcing plate being iron.

Section 2144.07 of the MPEP sets forth that the selection of a known material based on its suitability for its intended use supported a prima facie obviousness. See In re Leshin, 227 F.2d 197, 125 USPQ 416 (CCPA 1960) (selection of a known plastic to make a container of a type made of plastics prior to the invention was held to be obvious).

It would have been obvious to one of obvious skill in the art at the time the invention was made to construct the foam layer of Persson et al. with a plastic which is polyurethane resin because such selection of a known foamable plastic to construct a prior art device made of a foamable plastic is prima facie obvious in view of In re Leshin, 227 F.2d 197, 125 USPQ 416 (CCPA 1960).

Persson et al., as modified, do not disclose that the metal reinforcement is iron.

Section 2144.07 of the MPEP sets forth that the selection of a known material based on its suitability for its intended use supported a prima facie obviousness. See In re Leshin, 227 F.2d 197, 125 USPQ 416 (CCPA 1960) (selection of a known plastic to make a container of a type made of plastics prior to the invention was held to be obvious).

It would have been obvious to one of obvious skill in the art at the time the invention was made to construct the metal reinforcement of Persson et al. from iron because such selection of a known metal to construct a prior art device made of metal is prima facie obvious in view of In re Leshin, 227 F.2d 197, 125 USPQ 416 (CCPA 1960). Further, it would also have been obvious to construct the iron plate to have a thickness in the range of 3.2 to 4.5 mm based on the intended use absent a showing of the criticality thereof.

4. Claim 33 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Persson et al. in view of Kurihara.

Persson et al. as twice modified, disclose the claimed invention except for embedded fastening pieces for joining the roof member to the vehicle.

Kurihara disclose a plastic laminated roof structure with fastening pieces 16 embedded in a joint area for joining with a vehicle frame by fastening members.

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the roof member of Persson et al. with fastening pieces as taught by Kurihara for providing a means for connecting the roof member to the vehicle frame structure.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments have been considered and are at least in part moot in view of the new grounds of rejection. The arguments that focus on the method of manufacture rather than differences in the apparatus are not persuasive in that such arguments deal with supposed differences that are not claimed.
